O&M Cane Training research pilot — [IIT Delhi / NCAHT — entity per legal team] with participating schools for the blind

About this study

Your child's school is taking part in a research pilot to improve how orientation and mobility (white-cane skills) are taught to visually impaired children. During normal training sessions, your child's teacher will record your child's progress on structured activities using a mobile app. There are no extra tests, no medicines, and no costs. Participation is voluntary and refusing will not affect your child's schooling in any way.

What will be recorded

Your child's name, date of birth, height, weight and dominant hand; the results of each training activity; and optionally a small photo used only inside the teacher's app to identify your child. In research files your child is identified only by a random code — the default files that leave the device carry no name and no date of birth. You may at any time ask to see, correct, or delete your child's data, or withdraw this consent, by telling the school. Data is kept only for the duration of the study.

Part A — Consent to participate in the assessment

I have read this form (or it has been read out to me in a language I understand). I understand what will be recorded and why. I agree that my child may take part in the cane-training assessments and that the data described above may be used for this research.

Part B — Consent for video recording (optional)

The teacher may film short videos of my child performing the training activities. These clips are stored under my child's research code (not their name) and are viewed only by the research team to check training quality. I may say no to video and still allow the assessment. I may withdraw this permission at any time, and may ask for already-recorded clips to be deleted.

Tick ONE:

☐ YES — I give consent for my child to be filmed as described above.

☐ NO — I do not give consent for video. (My child still participates in the assessment.)
